

Finding the best in ourselves and our children

- Would you like your family members to communicate respectfully and peacefully with one another?
- Would you like your children to be responsible for their own actions?
- Is setting clear boundaries with relevant consequences a challenge for you?
- Are your children learning from their mistakes?

Finding the best in ourselves and our children addresses these issues and more, with five practical strategies based on virtues like respect, caring and honesty. Parents find that The Virtues Project strategies make family life more peaceful and joyful for everyone! Based on the premise that all of us have virtues within and that we as parents can draw them forth from our children helps us to focus on the positive and to get fabulous results!
